

We don't need foreign coach — Sackey

• Robert Sackey

Story: Samuel Ebo Kwaltoo

US-based Ghanaian coach, Robert Sackey, has kicked against the idea of contracting a foreign coach for the Black Stars because such a practice would not help the nation in the long-term.

Instead, Coach Sackey has advocated the formation of

• Continued on page 12

• Nana Sam Brew-Butler

Ex-GFA capos back StarTimes deal

• Nana Butler demands full disclosure from FA

— Back Page

Kordzi, Eso fire Hearts' revival

• Kotoko fans on rampage

— Back Page

Ayew breaks Palace record

— Page 15

Download GRAPHIC NEWSPLUS NOW

Connecting people through news

GRAPHIC NEWSPLUS

• The Chelsea centre-back poses with basketball icon LeBron James (left)

• Rudiger in the company of pals

• Time for a haircut for the Chelsea player

• Danger of the game: Rudiger walks with crutches after sustaining an injury

• Rudiger in the company of some children

• Rudiger and Liverpool star, Mohamed Salah

Antonio Rudiger

• Blues tough tackler

GERMAN International, Antonio Rudiger, has become a formidable player at Chelsea because of his tough composure, quick pace and a commanding presence in the air.

The Chelsea defender, who joined from Italian side Roma on 9 July 2017, was born to a German father while his mother is a Sierra Leonean.

Although a successful footballer, the player has tried to spread his wealth to the less privileged as he is said to be sponsoring some under privileged children in Sierra Leon.

The Chelsea defender started as a street footballer and spent eight years playing amateur football, including roles as a striker and midfielder, before he finally joined Stuttgart in the 2011/12 season.

The 26-year-old Berlin born defender's performance earns him a weekly salary of $121,725 at Chelsea and he is praised by many critics for his amazing skills and tackling abilities.

Rudiger is gradually becoming the towering figure of the English League and Chelsea are ready to keep the services of player at all cost.

Rudiger likes to remain as confidential as possible in his private life as some reports say he is still unmarried, but name his girlfriend as Reta whom he met in Roma during his days of playing in Italy.

• The player shows off one of his 'wild' cars