Enzo Fernandez

The record breaker

Argentine star, Enzo Fernandez's, transfer fee of £107million from Benfica to Chelsea last week broke the English Premier League transfer record which was held by Jack Grealish who made a £100m move from Aston Villa to Manchester City. Even though Neymar's £198m move from Barcelona to PSG in 2017 still holds the all-time record in Europe, the 22-year-old would be proud for how far he has come just three years after making his career debut for River Plate in Argentina.

Named after three-time Copa América winner and former River Plate player Enzo Francescoli, due to his father Raúl's fascination with the Uruguayan footballer, his father would now be proud because the son has lived up to his idol.

This is because despite having four other brothers, Seba, Rodri, Maxi and Gonzalo, he is the only son who has taken football to the highest level and is making the family proud.

He has won so many individual awards in football with the recent one being the FIFA Young Player Award at the 2022 World Cup in Qatar.

Fernández is married to fellow Argentine Valentina Cervantes, with whom he has a daughter, Olivia, born in 2020.
